C.1.2.2 ETS-HRS VME Rack Software Maintenance Details

The ETS-HRS VME rack is a stand-alone entity running the processes for which it has been built under the real-time VxWorks operating system. It does not have the capability of maintaining/updating the released software. Therefore, any software maintenance required to recompile/link tasks, should be done under the Software Configuration Management (SCM) in the premises of NASA/GSFC Code 521 in Building 23, or on a similar computer environment.

The instructions below are based on the Code 521 development system which uses the following software environment:

- SunOs Generic 5.5 Sun4d Sparc SUNW, SPARCcenter-2000.
- Wind River's Multi version 1.8.7 (development & cross-compiler tool).
- gcc compiler 2.8.0-96q2

The system is delivered on the 4mm data cartridge, which contains all the sources, objects, executables, data files, and other support files. In the following discussion, the term “development disk” refers to the hard disk on the development system, and the term “system disk” refers to the hard disc on the HRS VME rack. The procedures required to restore and rebuild the systems are as follows:

1. Turn HRS VME power “on”.

2. On the developement disc, create a directory: /usr/vxracks/ets

3. The system administrator should NFS MOUNT the HRS VME’s system disc on the development system in order for the system disc to be seen. The HRS VME system disc’s root directory should be called “/sd0” and aliased to the developement disc as: /usr/vxracks/ets/ets-high.

4. Mount the data cartridge and restore it in the directory /usr/vxracks/ets/. Upon completion of the restore, Version 1.1 ETS-HRS VME system software should be distributed on the directories as described earlier.

5. In the directory /usr/vxracks/ets/ets-high/sub_systems/makebin, start ‘multi’ and issue the ‘build’ command.

6. This process will automatically build all of the subsystems.

After all tasks have been built error-free, reboot the HRS VME and the system should be operational.

From this point on, any updates can be done on individual basis by a particular system. The software code changes should be done in the “src/” subdirectory of each subsystem.

The “multi” program has the capability of individually building each system selected from its menu.

C.1.2.3 ETS-HRS TRS Software Version 1.1 Directory Structure

The Tape Recording System (TRS) software contained on the delivery tape consists of the following files:

- TRS source tar file : trs1.10.tar.Z
- TCL source tar file : tcl7.6.tar.Z
- TK source tar file : tk4.2.tar.Z
- This text file : RELEASE.NOTES

The *.Z files are compressed and should be expanded using: 'uncompress <filename>'

C.1.2.4 ETS-HRS TRS Software Maintenance Details

The system, delivered on the 4mm data cartridge, contains all the sources, objects, executables, data files, and other support files. The procedures required to restore and rebuild the system are as follows:

1. Installing TRS Software

1.1. mkdir $HOME/trs
1.2. cd $HOME/trs
1.3. tar xvf 'filename'
1.4. cp $HOME/trs/bin/start_trs start_trs

2. Installing TCL Software

This software is public domain. You do not need to install it if your system already has it. To install it in a system directory such as /usr/local/bin, you will need to have root priviledges.

2.1. cd $HOME

2.2. tar xvf 'filename'

2.3. Type "./configure". This runs a configuration script created by GNU autoconf, which configures TCL for your system and creates a Makefile. The configure script allows you to customize the TCL configuration for your site; for details on how you can do this, type "./configure -help" or refer to the autoconf documentation (not included here). TCL's "configure" supports the following special switches in addition to the standard ones:

--enable-gcc If this switch is set, TCL will configure itself to use gcc if it is available on your system. Note: It is not safe to modify the Makefile to use gcc after ìconfigureî is run; if you do this, then information related to dynamic linking will be incorrect.

--disable-load If this switch is specified then TCL will configure itself not to allow dynamic loading, even if your system appears to support it. Normally you can leave this switch out and TCL will build itself for dynamic loading if your system supports it.

--enable-shared If this switch is specified, TCL will compile itself as a shared library if it can figure out how to do that on this platform. Note: be sure to use only absolute path names (those starting with "/") in the --prefix and --exec_prefix options.

2.4. Type "make". This will create a library archive called "libtcl.a" or "libtcl.so" and an interpreter application called "tclsh" that allows you to type TCL commands interactively or execute script files.

2.5. If the make fails then you'll have to personalize the Makefile for your site or possibly modify the distribution in other ways. First check the file "porting.notes" to see if there are hints for compiling on your system. Then look at the porting Web page described later in this file. If you need to modify Makefile, there are comments at the beginning of it that describe the things you might want to change and how to change them.

2.6. Type "make install" to install TCL binaries and script files in standard places. You'll need write permission on the installation directories to do this. The installation directories are determined by the "configure" script and may be specified with the --prefix and --exec_prefix options to "configure". See the Makefile for information on what directories were chosen; you can override these choices by modifying the "prefix" and "exec_prefix" variables in the Makefile.

2.7. At this point you can play with TCL by invoking the "tclsh" program and typing TCL commands. However, if you haven't installed TCL then you'll first need to set your TCL_LIBRARY variable to hold the full path name of the "library" subdirectory. Note that the installed versions of tclsh, libtcl.a, and libtcl.so have a version number in their names, such as "tclsh7.6" or "libtcl7.6.so"; to use the installed versions, either specify the version number or create a symbolic link (e.g. from "tclsh" to "tclsh7.6").

3. Installing TK Software

This software is public domain. You do not need to install it if your system already has it. To install it in a system directory such as /usr/local/bin, you will need to have root priviledges.

3.1. cd $HOME

3.2. tar xvf 'filename'

3.3. Make sure that the TCL 7.6 release is present in the directory ../../tcl7.6 (or else use the "--with-tcl" switch described below). This release of TK will only work with TCL 7.6. Also, be sure that you have configured TCL before you configure TK.

3.4. Check for patches as described in ../README.

3.5. If you have already compiled TK once in this directory and are now preparing to compile again in the same directory but for a different platform, or if you have applied patches, type "make distclean" to discard all the configuration information computed previously.

3.6. Type "./configure". This runs a configuration script created by GNU autoconf, which configures TCL for your system and creates a Makefile. The configure script allows you to customize the TCL configuration for your site; for details on how you can do this, type "./configure -help" or refer to the autoconf documentation (not included here). TK's "configure" script supports the following special switches in addition to the standard ones:

---enable-gcc If this switch is set, TK will configure itself to use gcc if it is available on your system. Note: it is not safe to modify the Makefile to use gcc after configure is run.

---with-tcl=DIR Specifies the directory containing the TCL binaries and TCL's platform-dependent configuration information. By default the TCL directory is assumed to be in the location given by (a) above.

---enable-shared If this switch is specified, TK will compile itself as a shared library if it can figure out how to do that on this platform. Note: be sure to use only absolute path names (those starting with "/") in the --prefix and --exec_prefix options.

3.7. Type "make". This will create a library archive called "libtk.a" or "libtk.so" and an interpreter application called "wish" that allows you to type TCL commands interactively or execute script files.

3.8. If the make fails then you'll have to personalize the Makefile for your site or possibly modify the distribution in other ways. First check the file "porting.notes" to see if there are hints for compiling on your system. Then look at the porting Web page described later in this file. If you need to modify Makefile, there are comments at the beginning of it that describe the things you might want to change and how to change them.

3.9. Type "make install" to install TK's binaries and script files in standard places. You'll need write permission on the installation directoryies to do this. The installation directories are determined by the "configure" script and may be specified with the --prefix and --exec_prefix options to "configure". See the Makefile for information on what directories were chosen; you can override these choices by modifying the "prefix" and "exec_prefix" variables in the Makefile.

3.10. At this point you can play with TK by invoking the "wish" program and typing TCL commands. However, if you haven't installed TK then you'll first need to set your TK_LIBRARY environment variable to hold the full path name of the "library" subdirectory. If you haven't installed TCL either then you'll need to set your TCL_LIBRARY environment variable as well (see the TCL README file for information on this). Note that installed versions of wish, libtk.a, libtk.so, and the TK library have a version number in their names, such as "wish4.0" or "libtk4.0.so"; to use the installed versions, either specify the version number or create a symbolic link (e.g. from "wish" to "wish4.0").

4. Installing & Running TRS Server Software

This program is needed only if you want to access the SONY tape recorder from a C program. It must be run on the Triplex.

On the Triplex:

4.1. cd $HOME/trs/sun/lib (make change to file 'Makefile' according to directions in the file)

4.2. make trs_util.a

4.3. cd $HOME/trs/sun/api

4.4. make trs_server

On the Triplex:
invoke trs_server program
The line below can also be inserted into /etc/rc.local so that the server is always started at boot time

4.5. $HOME/trs/sun/api/trs_server

Attachment D - Special Operating Instructions

1. There are two methods by which the HRS operator can perform the EDOS-to-HRS (DAAC) dataset transfers.

a. Using TPCE

During a dataset transmission~~s~~ from EDOS to HRS (acting like a DAAC), the operator should monitor the FDSTATUS window via TPCE. When the transmission of all files is completed and the *.PDR/EDR file has been received, the operator should close the FDSTATUS. Then, open the FTP TRANSFER WINDOW and send the *.PDR/EDR file to the HP OMDSIM directory. The OMDSIM will automatically create and transmit the appropriate PAN/EAN file for transmission to EDOS.

b. Using an X_terminal window on the HP workstation

At the end of EDOS--->HRS dataset transmission:

1) Login as COMBOTST.
2) Run OMDSIM
3) Change directory to ETS/ets-rel1.1/omdsim/batchftp
4) Execute the file called 'getrecords'

The program 'getrecords' will execute an FTP from the rack and retrieve all the PDR/EDR/XFR files and place them in the OMDSIM log directory. OMDSIM should then "see" them create/transmit the appropriate EAN/PAN.

c. Detailed procedure for EDOS-to-HRS (DAAC) dataset transfer

The exact sequence of events from the time EDOS sends a dataset to HRS (acting like a DAAC), to the time the HRS needs to send back to EDOS acknowledgment of the transfer, is defined as follows:

EDOS will send a dataset comprised of PDS, XFR, PDR files, to one IP address as follows:
....000.PDS
....000.XFR
....001.PDS
....001.XFR
....002.PDS
....002.XFR
....000.PDR
....000.XFR
(Per specification it could be up to ...009 PDS files per dataset)

The ...000.PDR file indicates the end of the dataset. When this PDR file is received by HRS, the HRS operator will manually invoke the "ftp transfer capability" (see 1a. and 1b. above) to send the newly received PDR to the HRS HP workstation where the OMDSIM program is running. The OMDSIM will automatically generate and transmit a corresponding PAN file to EDOS to denote the completion of the dataset transmission. EDOS will not send any other datasets until the PAN acknowledgment file is sent by the HRS.

Current HRS design is as such that the "reply" address (destination for the PAN file) is entered by the operator before the data transfers are taking place.

The scenario described is for PDS files. The same also applies for the EDS files (EDS/EDR/EAN).

2. Service Processor VC Status Page Clarification (User Guide - Section 4.2.4.13)

Missing will be changed to read: Value indicates the number of frames that are missing with the associated VCID. Note, if the sequence count number "rolls over", (i.e. 65,536) it may look like not an accurate measure of the number of missing frames due to the fact the number that is shown on the screen is a "real" number.

Specifically, in the following cases:

a. If a sequence count for a VCID decreases, (i.e. current is 4 then, the next count for that VCID is 3) will produce a "-1" (3-4=-1 which if converted to an unsigned number is 4294967295 and since HRS only displays 9 characters on the screen, it will show the value: 292967295)

b. If the seqcnt rolls over due to limitations on the test data set. In this case: If the seqcnt for a vcid is 1500 and then the data set is retransmitted (thus starting over at zero) HRS will calculate the missing vcid's to be 0-1500 which is 4294965795. Again in this case it will show the value: 292967295). In all the cases the gap count will only increase by 1.

3. TPCE 1.1 Documentation Changes

The following changes reflect the new enhancements to TPCE in order to assure the correct operation and connections to appropriate ports.

Several run time tests have been added to the TPCE start up script, "runtpce". For clarity, these tests can be grouped into two categories.

a) Setting up a new platform.
b) Port availability and verification

Setting up a new platform

This category is especially useful when setting up a new platform. The scripts will perform the following tests:

"Error: this platform is not running HP-UX "

TPCE for ETS-HRS must run on HP architecture, running the HP-UX operating system. If this is not the case this error message is displayed.

"Error: directory $pdbDir does not exist"

This error message means that the directory where file "status.pdb" resides does not exist. Note that the symbol $pdbDir actually expands to the full directory name.

"Error: directory $uilDir does not exist"

This message means that the directory containing the various *.uil files does not exist. Symbol $uilDir is expanded to the full directory name.

"Error: directory $coreBinDir does not exist"

This message means that the directory containing the majority of TPCE executables does not exist. Symbol $coreBinDir is expanded to the full directory name.

"Error: utility $xrdbDir/xrdb does not exist"

This message means the utility program "xrdb" cannot be found in the directory specified. "xrdb" functions as a resource database for X-Windows applications, and affects various aspects of TPCE windows.

Port availability and verification

This category of tests check that needed ports are free.

"Warning: Port 3000 in use"

This message means that port 3000 is in use. Port 3000 is used by the ETS rack to receive MEDS commands and return acknowledgments. While this test merely determines if any IP address is using port 3000, it is highly likely that the rack's IP address is the culprit. If this warning is received, simply wait 30 seconds and try running the "runtpce" script again.

"Warning: Port 3100 in use"

This message means that port 3100 is in use. Port 3100 is used by the ETS rack to return periodic status blocks to TPCE. The same elaboration as per port 3000.

"Warning: Port 3200 in use"

This message means that port 3200 is in use. Port 3200 is used by the ETS rack to return asynchronous error messages to TPCE. The same elaboration as per port 3000.

"Warning: Port $p in use"
"Warning: Port $t in use"

TPCE uses two ports to handle interprocess communication. These messages mean that the port(s) are still allocated. Note that symbols $p & $t are translated to the ports in question before being displayed.

While any IP address could be using these ports, it is highly likely that this workstation is the IP in question, and the allocation of these ports was the result of a previous or current invocation of TPCE. Wait 30 - 60 seconds and try running the "runtpce" script again. If these ports are still unavailable, then it's possible that someone else is running TPCE on the same workstation. This can be determined by running 'netstat', and checking for TPCE executables.

Title: LZP mode: update was locked, restart whole sys!!!

* Problem (Added 970611 by hzavaleta) **********

LZP Mode: After running a config set, we shutdown the subsystems involved (FS, RS, SIM, LZP). Activating config set again frequently produces SIM card error: "update was locked, restart whole sys!!!" We did not reboot. Repeating this process sometimes resulted in successful activation. If we did not shutdown any subsystems before reactivating, the error still appeared. However, if we shutdown only the SIM card, the error did not appear.

Title: Window jumps after each command

* Problem (Added 970611 by hzavaleta) **********

File Transfer and Data Set Transfer Utility windows jump to a new position after each command, obscuring the monitor window where the user must see the status of command execution. If the user does not wait for command execution before the next command is sent (SEND, DONE, UPDATE), the 2nd command will not actually execute. Ideally, these command buttons would be grayed-out (non-operable) pending previous command execution a la the rest of TPCE.

Title: DVT counts

* Problem (Added 980121 by nkaramchetty) **********

The DVT states that a particular PDS has 37 packets according to its construction record, but it says that it found 0 packets when supposedly searching through the data set. This count is obviously wrong. The data set does have packets. One possible source of this error is that the DVT does not even look in the data set.

Attachment G - List of System Requirements

Attachment H – HRS System Limitations

The following system limitations apply to HRS. Possible workarounds, when applicable, are provided. DRs not found in this table have no workaround.

DR. No.	Rel	Sev	Problem Description	Possible Workaround
n/a	1.1.0		The HRS performance requirement for the transfer (or receipt) of data sets via FTP through EBnet is 34 Mbps. This data rate was achieved during development testing on a local network in Building 23. Once the HRS was installed in its operational test environment in Building 32 and was connected to EBnet, a maximum data rate of 11 Mbps was measured. Performance testing is in progress and requires EDOS, EBnet, and HRS support to determine the cause of the lower transfer rate.	Transmit or receive data sets at rates up to 11 Mbps to support functional testing of the EDOS - DAAC interface. Continue to work with EBnet and EDOS personnel to improve performance
n/a	1.0		Some self-test capabilities at high data rates were not fully implemented including performing CADU-level return link processing at sustained data rates up to 150 Mbps, performing packet-level return link processing at sustained data rates up to 30 Mbps over a duration of 50 minutes, and .performing Path Service processing at a rate of up to 10,000 packets per second at 30 Mbps over a duration of 50 minutes, with an average packet size of 330 bytes. (V3-4.5.1-.3)	Not implemented at high rate since this is an off-line/self-test function, but functions work at lower rates.
n/a	1.0		Logging and print functions not fully implemented. (V3-5.1.4.7, V3-5.1.6.3, V3-5.1.6.4, V3-5.3.7, V3-5.5.10)	Status information is displayed on screens. Some files could be copied and printed elsewhere.
n/a	1.0		The HRS shall be able to construct PDSs containing packets of a single sensor from a specified number of sessions within a 24-hour period (V3-3.5.3.6.c)	Only a single session will be handled.
n/a	1.0		Hostnames, directory names, and FTP passwords are not included in the system at this time for initial tests with EDOS or any DAACs because this information is currently not known. This will be needed to transmit or receive data sets and associated OMD.	Make necessary changes when the information is available in the applicable Operations Agreements.
ETS0199	1.0	3	There is an icon in the TRS Sony window that allows the user to control the clock generator from the GUI. However, nothing at all happens when this icon is clicked.	Use the front panel controls to set the clock generator.

DR. No.	Rel	Sev	Problem Description	Possible Workaround
ETS0200	1.0	2	TPCE File Transfer Utility invariably reaches state where all actions result in error message: "Unable to send command to hardware". Seems to be a timing problem - in some cases, there is no real error, i.e., the command executed successfully.	Close the error window by selecting the OK option.
ETS0201	1.0	2	TPCE does not report average data transfer rate of FTP. - Requirement # V3-5.3.5	A calculator can be used to compute the average based on the start/stop times.
ETS0203 ETS0208	1.0	3	DVT does not verify consistency of Construction Records against actual data sets for fill packet list, counts, and location and for missing packet list. DCT does not compare Construction Records between data sets for missing packets or fill packets.
ETS0209 ETS0210 ETS0220 ETS0223	1.0	3 3 3 3	Several DRs cited TPCE limitations to provide displays for various status parameters.	Use OPMAN to view the particular status information.
ETS0213	1.0	3	LZP Mode: After running a config set, we shutdown the subsystems involved (FS, RS, SIM, LZP). Activating config set again frequently produces SIM card error: "update was locked, restart whole sys!!!" We did not reboot. Repeating this process sometimes resulted in successful activation. If we did not shutdown any subsystems before reactivating, the error still appeared.	In the LZP mode, data sets will be created. You cannot re-activate configuration sets until the previous session is complete, i.e., all cards have shut-down and all data sets have been created. Therefore, follow operational procedures for LZP mode.
ETS0214	1.0	3	There are no windows to monitor the status of the Ethernet LAN ports, FDDI LAN ports, or EBnet ports.
ETS0216	1.0	2	Frequently get this error after attempting to activate a configuration set: "1 timeout on response from VLSI %d!!. (Error code: 1) Must reboot HRS after each occurrence.	Reboot the system.
ETS0219	1.0	2	Test data containing errors in frame and packet headers does not produce the expected counts.	Calibrate the analysis process by selectively turning on errors and observing the results.
ETS0225	1.0	3	OM-Delog utility not functioning. The OM-delog terminal window does not appear when an OMD receive or OMD transmitted log filename is selected from the file selection dialog box to be viewed.	The OMD log files are ASCII text files and can be viewed with any editor.
ETS0230	1.0	3	Frame Sync Status page has no field for Short Slip Errors.	Use only the status shown for the (total) slip errors.

DR. No.	Rel	Sev	Problem Description	Possible Workaround
ETS0233	1.0	3	File Transfer and Data Set Transfer Utility windows jump to a new position after each command, obscuring the monitor window where the user must see the status of command execution. If the user does not wait for command execution before the next command is sent (SEND, DONE, UPDATE), the 2nd command will not actually execute. Ideally, these command buttons would be grayed-out (non-operable) pending previous command execution a la the rest of TPCE.	Wait for previous command to be executed by monitoring the event log screen, before selecting the next command.
ETS0240	1.0	2	The HRS should be able to recover, upon restoration of functionality following a failure, all production data processing performed prior to the failure. (V3-3.5.3.7)	The LZP production data processing may not always be recoverable. Data on the AP disk is lost when the system is rebooted.
ETS0259	1.0	3	GUI does not provide means to delete a configuration set.	Use the Unix shell command 'rm'.
